$11,999

Off the back of the success of the NS-5000 flagship speakers, Yamaha announced a suite of complementary flagship amplifier models, including the C-5000 pre-amplifier, and M-5000 power amplifier, each pushing the boundaries and showcasing Yamaha's capabilities as a world-class audio manufacturer. The C-5000 pre-amp features fully balanced and discrete circuits, with each channel resembling a mirror image of the other, including independent toroidal transformers to ensure excellent channel separation and voltage stability. The M-5000 drives 100 watts into two channels (8 ohms), when combined with the C-5000, delivers a fully balanced end-to-end signal chain, minimising audio losses that would otherwise typically occur in conventional connections and wire assemblies.

TransAcoustic™

TransAcoustic™ Technology

The one of its kind TransAcoustic™ technology transmits digital sound directly to the piano soundboard, thus making the piano itself behave as a speaker. On a TransAcoustic™ piano, the sound that you hear is resonating directly from the soundboard. The tone generator sends an optimized audio signal to transducers that are connected by a coil to the soundboard. This sets the coils in motion, causing the soundboard to vibrate and generate sonic vibrations that travel through bridges attached to the soundboard, and are ultimately transmitted to the strings, making them resonate with sound.

The new version of the TransAcoustic piano also features friendlier and easier to use control unit interface.
